Intravenous iloprost for patients with non-arteritic anterior ischemic optic neuropathy: a pilot, randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled, dose-escalation trial. Intravenous iloprost is an effective therapy for chronic thromboembolic pulmonary hypertension. We determined the safety and efficacy of this treatment in patients with non-arteritic anterior ischemic optic neuropathy (NAION). The design was a pilot, double-blind, placebo-controlled, randomized, dose-escalation trial performed at the Vancouver General Hospital between July 2001 and February 2002. Seventeen patients with NAION (six female, 11 male, age 47 +/- 9 years, visual field mean deviation or 24-2 threshold perimetry -8 +/- 11 decibels [dB]) received escalating doses of iloprost (10
