- Cookies support - For all Firefox versions, including all Nightly builds - Copy the list of cookies to an external file - Search and delete cookies - Export cookies to text or HTML - Automatic backup/restore of cookies to a pen drive - Built-in verification of every entry before it's saved to the list MZCookiesView is a small-sized and portable app that displays all cookies from Mozilla Firefox. It sports an intuitive set of options that can be easily tweaked by all user levels, including those less experienced. Since there is no setup pack involved, you can put the executable file in any location on the hard disk and just click it to run. In addition, there is the option of saving a copy of MZCookiesView to a pen drive or similar storage unit, in order to run it on any PC with minimum effort and no prior installers, as long as it has Firefox installed. More importantly, the Windows registry and Start menu are not updated with new entries. The interface is made from a regular window with an intuitive structure, where a list is immediately populated with Firefox cookies at startup. Shown information includes the domain/host, path, name, value, expiration date, and others. It is possible to export this list to an external file (HTM, HTML, TXT, XML) for further analysis and safekeeping, back up and restore cookie files, delete selected cookies, as well as pick another user profile. Meanwhile, a search function comes in handy to browse for cookies in lengthy lists. CPU and RAM usage is low during the tool's runtime, so the PC performance is not affected in any way. We have not encountered any difficulties throughout our evaluation, as the app did not hang, crash or pop up error dialogs. Thanks to its intuitive layout and overall simplicity, MZCookiesView can be handled by all user levels.
